Re: Case Number 96-172

Dear Members of the Public Service Commission:

I am writing on behalf of The Housing Authority of Louisville, in opposition to the proposal of Kentucky CGSA, Inc. to locate a cellular telephone tower and related structures at 2017 South 39th Street, Louisville, Jefferson County, Kentucky 40211. The proposed location is within 500 feet of the Lang housing project.

The Housing Authority of Louisville is a public entity created pursuant to KRS Chapter 80, which maintains, operates and manages housing for low-income residents. The Lang housing project, along with the nearby Cotter Homes housing project, are housing projects located in the Park DuValle area operated by the Housing Authority of Louisville.

In what has been described as a "revolution in public housing," which puts Louisville at the "cutting edge of housing reform," the Housing Authority of Louisville recently has commenced the implementation of a $165,000,000 redevelopment project in the Park DuValle area. This redevelopment project, which is funded not only by both our local government and the federal government (Department for Housing and Urban Development) but also by private sources, will involve razing the Cotter Homes and Lang housing complexes and replacing them with new housing which will be for a variety of incomes. The goal of the redevelopment project, which includes the purchase by the Housing Authority of Louisville of additional land in this area, is to provide a mixed-income residential area only part of which will be housing for low-income residents.

The tower proposed by Kentucky CGSA is fundamentally at odds with the Housing Authority of Louisville's redevelopment plan. Indeed, the location of such a tower will make it less likely for persons other than low-income residents to move into the area and therefore would be a great detriment to the fundamental goal trying to be achieved by the Housing Authority of Louisville.

For these reasons, the Housing Authority of Louisville objects to the proposal of Kentucky CGSA, Inc. to locate a cellular radio telecommunications center at 2017 South 39th Street in Louisville.

Very truly yours,

HOUSING AUTHORITY OF LOUISVILLE
